THE NEW NEGRO EXODUS. - On vicinity. Monday a party of negroes emigrants numbering about fifty souls boarded the north-bound train at this point en route for Arkansas. We are informed that about the same time another squad of negroes left by the Spartanburg & Union Railroad, from the western section of the county for the same State. These squads are but the pioner guard of a large force, who will leave the red hills of Fairfield to soek homes in the fertile fields of the new promise land beyond the Mississippi. The census of 1880 shows that in Fairfield there are about 7,000 whites and about 21,000 negroes, so we could easily spare a few hundreds of the more worthless if such would leave, but unfortunately the emigrants are drawn from the most industrious of the negro population. Negroes who by hard work and the practice of domestic economy, not far removed from starvation, have succeeded in saving enough to pay for tickets are the ones who are leaving. The railroads leading to the West are offering special transportation rates to all who wish to go. The railroads leading into our State should make some effort to draw the tide of white emigration into its boundaries, as the time will come if it has not already arrived, when good laborers will be as scarce as hen teeth. If the railroads of our State had not been managed under a policy of short-sighted selfishness and moss backed conservatism, such an effort would have been made

Messrs, Editors: Having recently returned from Newberry, I have but little of interest from this section to communicate. Our farmers, both in Fairfield and Newberry, I learn have harvested nearly all of their cotton crop, and are sowing grain. Not a full crop of wheat will be sown, the price of flour being low. This is not farmer-like.

While at Newberry I commenced 'Reminiscences of Fairfield County". I have written nearly as far as I have a knowledge of our county; of the first settlers and some historical and biographical items, aided by Mills' Statistics of South Carolina and Woodward's Reminiscences. I have vielded to many urgent solicitations of friends to compile a history of Fairfield with diffidence, knowing my inability to procure material to make it any way complete. The time has past to obtain much material from memory or tradition, as our old ones have passed away. As I regard every patriot of our county interested in the history of it, embracing the biography of their ancestors, I hope every one who can contribute to the interest of the work will cheerfully aid me in its prosecution.
